

KELLY SCHOTT Biography

Kelly Schott was born and raised in central New Jersey, just a short drive from her sanctuary and the subject of many of her photographs: the beach. Kelly has always been passionate about photography, from the days of her plastic McDonald's toy camera to her current Nikons.

She earned her B.A. in Journalism - Photojournalism from New York University where she worked at newspapers, a television station, and blogs as a photographer and member of the art department. Kelly's work toward her concentration covered the different forms of photography as well as analyzing various forms of media.

Kelly currently works in social media for Jersey Shore Hurricane News and continues to pursue photography. Her work can be found on Facebook under the page name Kelly Schott Photography.
